in a quintessential small
New England town

Truly a wonderland, Stowe, Vermont has attracted the world's most discerning travelers, who have immersed themselves in the beauty of the area's covered bridges, sparkling lakes, rambling woodlands and majestic peaks. Those who frequent Stowe treasure its ability to welcome the world, while still remaining the quintessential small New England town. The creation of Stowe Mountain Lodge reaffirms the mountain's reputation as a world-class resort.

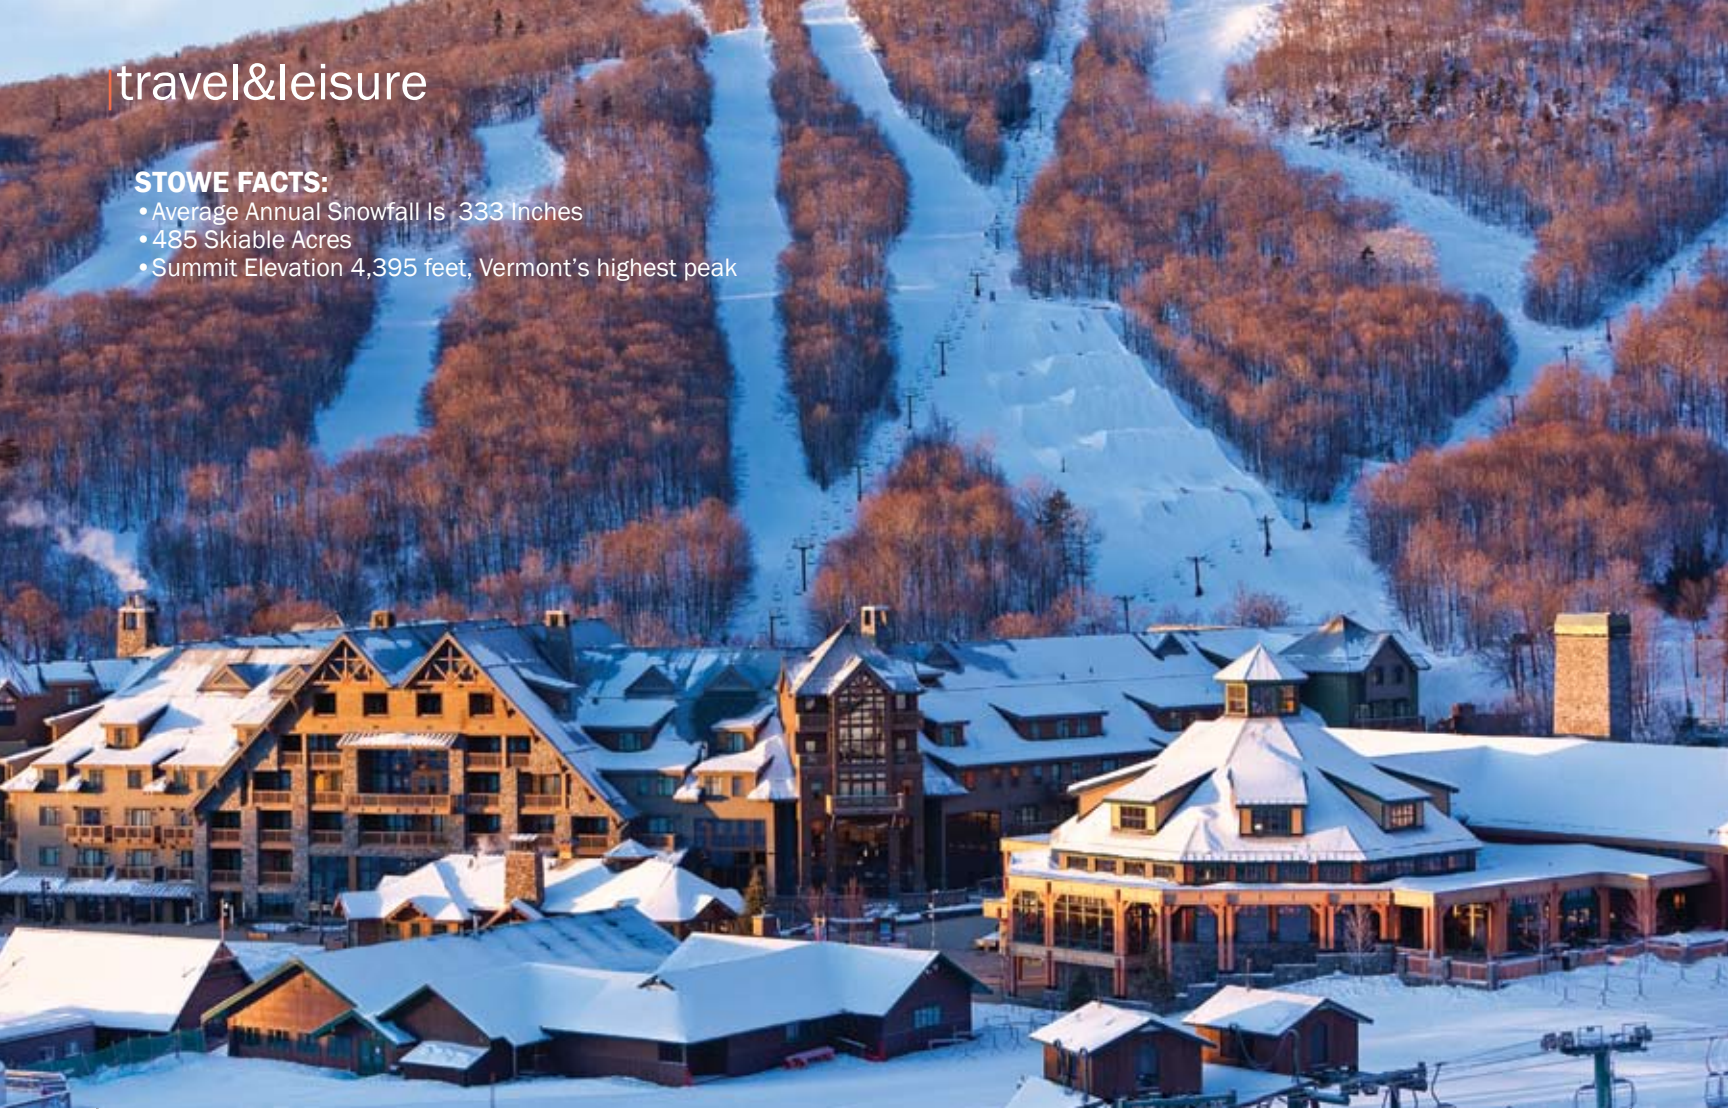

The Stowe Mountain Lodge is at the center of Spruce Peak at Stowe, a new $400 million alpine neighborhood that has been in planning and development stages for the past 16 years. Guests of Stowe Mountain Lodge enjoy five-star service, a 21,000-square-foot spa and wellness center, 312 guest rooms, ski-in/ski-out access to over 100 legendary trails, a heated outdoor pool, and exclusive access to Stowe Mountain Club, an 18-hole mountain golf course designed by Bob Cupp. The property offers more than 12,000 square feet of event space, as well as high-end boutiques, restaurants and limitless recreational options.

The lodge offers farm fresh cuisine in its Solstice restaurant and Hourglass bar. There are 34 fractionally-owned condominium units available for vacation home ownership in the Lodge's Front Four Private Residence Club.
